May we take the opportunity to remind you of your duty to disclose all Material Facts. This means that every insured, when seeking new insurance, amending or renewing an existing policy must disclose any information which might influence the insurer in deciding whether or not to accept the risk, what the terms of the policy should be or what premium to charge. In you fail to disclose all material facts, this may render the insurance voidable from inception (the start of a contract) and/or enable the insurer to repudiate a claim (entitle insurer not to pay your claims).
